2. Please include a copy of your current unofficial university transcript with this application.

3. Please provide the contact information of one academic references on your application, one preferably from the NSSP Advisory Committee (committee list is attached with this application).

4. Please provide a brief resume that lists scholarships, awards, and honors; community service; and employment history.

5. A personal interview will be required. Applicants will be contacted to set up a date and time to meet with NSSP personnel.

6. The NSSP will appoint you as either a Scholar or Associate Scholar.

Admission as an NSSP Scholar or Associate Scholar

Acceptance will be based on all of the following competitive factors:

1. NSSP Scholar acceptance requires active enrollment in an NSSP special topics course or in NSSP recommended courses at UNM. (Recommended course areas include foreign language, religious studies, political science, engineering, computer science, math, global studies, information assurance and criminology. A specific list by course name is under development.)

2. NSSP Associate Scholar acceptance requires a commitment to study in an NSSP special topics course or in NSSP recommended courses at UNM.

3. GPA/Academic Achievement: A 3.0 GPA is required for both designations. Forty-five completed credit hours are required for the Scholar designation. Fifteen completed credit hours are required for Associate Scholar designation. Please contact Matthew Baca if special circumstances need be considered.

4. Applicant's motivation and skill interests.
